

1913 Spring "Opening"

—of Parisian and Franco-American Millinery.

The Paris Hats, from Reboux, Gorgette, Maria Guy, Lewis, Paul Poiret and Louison, are to be exhibited only in the private parlors. The prices of these imported hats have to be extravagantly high. The New York adaptations are less costly. At $7.50 and $10 are the semi-dress and tailored suit hats, made in the workrooms here. The milliners request their regular patrons to call tomorrow and promise their personal attention.

Word Pictures.

MATERIALS—Fine Milan, the high style straw. Hems, especially tagals, are popular. Satin, taffeta, plain and figured chiffon, crepe and charmeuse with straw. Tail facings a feature. Brocaded ruffles with tagal. Velvet crowns and facings with straw.

TRIMMINGS—Tail, skeleton ostrich egrettes. Ostrich egrettes with roses, apples and ribbons. Pleated motifs of velvet. Numidie in shower egrette effects. Aligrette composed of various flowers. Roses and zinnias with novelty ribbons.

APPLICATION—Upright trimmings dominant. The aeroline idea strong. Novel horizontal side trimmings in evidence. Small floral bouquets are flatly placed. Ribbon loops are flat and trim.

"Opening" the Silks

—From France, Switzerland and Italy.

The Parisian Novelties of today, retailing in New York at $6 per yard, are here at only $1.50. It has been the good fortune of the Greater Palais Royal Silk Department's new chief, late of Wanamaker's in New York, to secure these exquisite silks from four New York importers of high-class Novelty Silks, who were moving from "down town" to new quarters "up town."

The following Fine Double-Width Silks to be found in these lots, at only $1.50 yard for choice, include: Silk Covert Cloth, Diagonal Merveilleux, Printed Olive, Chevron Sulting, Cote de Cheval, Armure Française, Corded Silks, Chameleon Taffeta Raye, Piquette, Fleur de Jeunesse Carreau, Charnesse, Satin Noir, Suisse, Meteor and Bedford. These silks are available at less than $2.50 yard, and most of them are $1.50 a yard value. Grand exposition and sale tomorrow—on Second Floor.

Spring Costumes

Suits 1913 Dresses

—Including New York Adaptations—Samples—at Only $15

The authentic spring styles of Paris and London will be noted in the G street show windows and in the parlors on third floor. The invitation to inspect the new importations and adaptations is associated with the request to have them tried on over the new spring style corsets.

Madame Lyra and American Lady Corsets—a Demonstration.

Both the new Corsets and the Dresses and Suits are on third floor, so that they may be tried on in conjunction.

"Madame Lyra" Corsets, adopted by the queens of the stage, are for sale in Washington only here. The first completely new stock of 1913 "American Lady" Corsets will also prove an important factor.

The newest model of the "American Lady" Corset has double reinforced back and other important features that will be demonstrated. Complimentary $3 price tomorrow $10

Another new model "American Lady" Corset has double reinforced back and other important features that will be demonstrated. Complimentary $2 price tomorrow $10

Playing Cards 10c
3 Packs, 25c.
It's a question of quality—learn if these cards in the Bargain Basement are not real bargains.

Note
This Basement is to be none the less "House-keepers' Paradise" than formerly; in fact, the stocks of House furnishings, China and Glassware are much greater and more complete since the building of the Greater Palais Royal. With 29,400 square feet this greater basement is capable of greater results.

Opening Day Tomorrow
The Greater Palais Royal Bargain Basement is opened with the view of creating a revolution in low-priced merchandise.
The rule has been, almost without exception, that low-cost articles are cheap in quality and style, only too palpably cheap.
One reason is that vast quantities are made up, cheaply made, so that a low price can be quoted and a good profit still result to both wholesaler and retailer.
The Palais Royal Bargain Basement is to offer only real bargains—the result of keenly watching the markets and profiting by unusual opportunities.
If real bargains cannot be had, in no instance will the department chiefs be allowed to resort to the inferior stuff made for cheap sales.
With keen and trained department chiefs constantly in the wholesale markets, and with the reputation gained and earned for real bargains, the hope is that the Greater Palais Royal Bargain Basement will rapidly grow in popularity.

Read
The most wonderful bargains to be found in this "Bargain Basement" tomorrow cannot be told in detail here.
See this evening's Sunday Times for illustrations and descriptions of Tailored Suits, at $10, and Waists at 50c.
That they will create a furor is certain. See page 4 of this evening's Sunday Times.

Curtain Corners 19c
Various Values.
The "drummers" samples: 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 yard lengths, showing the patterns of various lace curtains that retail at various prices from $2.00 to $7.00 per pair.

Lace Curtains 98c
Values to $6.
The best looking and best wearing Scotch Lace Curtains; 1 to 8 pairs of a pattern. $1.50 to $6.00 values at only 98c pair for choice.

Swiss Curtains 69c
Standard at $1.25.
Of fine quality swiss, 2 1/2 yards in length, with borders in various colors. Note the hemstitched ruffle. 69c instead of $1.25 pair.

Centerpieces 39c
Standard at 75c.
These are Linen Centerpieces, trimmed with linen torchon lace; guaranteed to wash without pulling or tearing.

Pictures? Worth to?
See these Pictures, note the frames and then ask the prices. If any one of these half hundred of them are here by closing time tomorrow, then it does not pay to advertise or to offer real bargains.

Big Blankets 98c
Standard at $1.50.
The size, weight and appearance of California Wool Blankets. Comforts, too, with all the appearance of silk covered and down filling.

Sheets 39c
Standard at 50c.
Various sizes—30c for 50c size; 40c for 65c size; 50c for 75c size. Note the hemstitched ruffle. 39c instead of 50c; 40c instead of 50c; 50c instead of 65c.

Nursery Chair 37c
Standard at 75c.
Child's Chair, with toy table. Note how strongly made and nicely finished. Then consider the price.

ADDED AFRICAN HUNT

Many Citizens Helped to Pay Roosevelt's Expenses.

NAMES JUST MADE PUBLIC

Even Colonel Did Not Know Contributors Until Few Days Ago.

COLLECTION OF GREAT VALUE

Total of 23,167 Specimens of Plant, Animal and Bird Life Furnished to Smithsonian Institution.

After a delay of more than three years the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution yesterday made public the list of those who contributed to the fund covering the expenses of the Smithsonian African expedition under the leadership of Col. Theodore Roosevelt. This list is not complete as it only contains the names of those persons who were willing that the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution should make public their names.

the exception of Andrew Carnegie and possibly one or two personal friends.

List of Contributors.

The list includes the names of Edward D. Adams of New York, former Secretary Robert Bacon of Boston, Cornelius N. Bliss of New York, James Campbell of St. Louis, W. Bayard Cutting of New York, Andrew Carnegie of New York, Cleveland H. Dodge of New York, E. H. Gary of New York, John Hays Hammond of Washington, H. L. Higginson of Boston, Hennen Jennings of Washington, J. E. Kennedy of New York, Ralph King of Cleveland, Secretary George von L. Meyer of Washington, D. O. Mills of New York, Arthur S. Munn of Provo, Utah; H. C. Perkins of Washington, D. C.; W. Perkins of New York, Henry Phillips of New York, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid of New York, Senator Elihu Root of Washington, J. C. Rosegarten of Philadelphia, Jacob H. Schiff of New York, Isaac N. Seligman of New York, O. M. Stoffer of Cleveland, J. C. Storer of New York, S. Straus of New York and Isidor Straus of New York.

From the contributions the Smithsonian's three-fifths share of all the expenses were paid; the other two-fifths were paid by Col. Roosevelt, which covered all his personal expenses and those of his son, and their proportionate two-fifths share of the total expenses of the expedition.

Collections Received.

The following is the complete list of the collections made by the expedition that have been received by the institution:

Specimens	Value
Mammals	5,013
Birds	4,332
Birds' eggs and nests	131
Reptiles and batrachians	2,332
Fish	417
Insects	5,300
Shells	1,500
Miscellaneous invertebrates	630
Total	23,167

As the result of this expedition the biological collections now in the National Museum from East Africa are the most complete and systematic of any in the world.

Considerable interest is being taken by the public in relation to the disposition of the collections made by the Smithsonian African expedition under the leadership of Col. Roosevelt. The collections when received, were distributed to the various departments of the National Museum to which they pertained—the birds were sent to the bird department, the large animals to the mammal department, the plants to the botanical department, and so on.

Mounted for Exhibition.
A number of groups of the large mammals have been prepared, and a number of individual specimens mounted for exhibition purposes. The greater portion of the specimens have been placed in the study series, and the duplicates will be distributed by exchange or otherwise. The groups of large mammals now mounted will shortly be placed on exhibition in the new museum mammal hall, in order to place them in their proper place in the classification in the hall, which is closed temporarily pending the arrangement of the cases containing the specimens.

"What" Was His Name.

From the London Chronicle.
A guild of godparents to save children from incongruous names is being suggested. The late Canon Fardley, author of a book on English names, told the story of what was probably the most unfortunate name ever bestowed upon an infant. A woman had her son baptized "What" for no other reason than to cause amusement in future years when, being asked his name, he should reply, "What."

It pays to read the want columns of The Star. Hundreds of situations are filled through them.

MEDAL OF HONOR MEN

RESIDING IN CAPITAL

Capt. Carter and Lieut. Col. Fugger Recognized for Bravery.

To the Editor of The Star:

In a recent Sunday edition of The Star there appeared an article which assumes to give the records of all officers of the United States Army now residing in Washington who have been awarded the medal of honor for conspicuous gallantry in action either during the civil war or with Indians since. From the quotation made it must have been obtained, in part, at least, from the official records of the War Department. The names of these seventeen officers from major generals to captains are given. In justice to at least one officer who was awarded that medal—but whose name is not included in that list—an old captain—and I can name others not on that list residing here—I trust you will make the following correction: This captain was the youngest of four brothers who served during the civil war in the Army of the Potomac. He was sixteen years of age. This captain, who was left out of your list, entered West Point in June, 1865, graduated and was assigned to the 4th U. S. Cavalry.

Has Unusual Record

In a fight with Quah-qua Comanche Indians in the Panhandle of Texas, October 10, 1871, he was injured almost fatally, but, notwithstanding, rode for miles to a spring, where he was found by his captives. He received two brevet medals and the congressional medal of honor for "most distinguished gallantry," etc. There are only twelve other officers of the United States Army in a list of 563, brevetted since the civil war, who have this record. And only one other officer whose record reads, "For specially gallant conduct." None of these twelve, however, have ever received a "special letter of thanks" and commendation from a department commander for the capture of ten deserters under conditions of extreme peril. Nor have any of them ever received "the grateful thanks" of a sovereign state (Texas) through its legislature in joint assembly for riding its border into Indian territory and capturing a band of Indians. He was this captain who was honored in your writer's resident medal of honor list, and who, if he had remained on the active list, could have by operation of law, been a brigadier general in January, 1903.

Some time ago, realizing the uncertainties of life and having nearly approached the sixty-eight-year mark, he sent in his record for partial record, for he did not include the battles in which he participated in the civil war for approval in the War Department (quarter-master general's office) for an inscription to go on a bronze plate which, with stone, would form his memorial in the Arlington National cemetery. It was promptly approved—showing that it was correct in every detail.

Fugger Also Honored.
Lieut. Col. Frederick Fugger, U. S. A., retired, is another gallant medal of honor officer, who has been residing here for years. He was the first sergeant of Cushing's Battery A, 4th United States Artillery. He took command of the battery when Cushing was killed at Gettysburg, and slept with his body by his side after nearly all of the horses were killed, caissons blown up and the battery was withdrawn to the rear by order of Gen. Hancock.

story or has been negligent in gathering the official records. He should either have included all resident medal of honor officers of the army or else have not written it at all to do an act of injustice to living officers who, too, have earned and received the much coveted medal of honor.

This captain has resided in Washington longer than any other medal of honor man named, and the act for which he was awarded that medal is clearly set forth in the War Department records, which, while accessible to the writer of that article, he did not fully avail himself of.

Capt. Carter's Record.

The record to which Capt. Carter refers is as follows:
Robert Goldthwaite Carter, captain, United States Army, retired.
Civil War—22d Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, Aug. 5, 1862, to October 4, 1864; 1st Brigade, 1st Division, 5th Corps, Army of Potomac.
Graduate United States Military Academy, class 1870; first lieutenant, 4th United States Cavalry.
Indian wars—Medal of honor for "most distinguished gallantry" in action with Quah-qua Comanche Indians, Fresh-water Forks, Brazos river, Tex., October 10, 1871.
Two brevets for "specially gallant conduct" and for "gallant service in action" against Indians.
Special letter of thanks from commanding general, Department of Texas, January 4, 1872, expressing "gratification" and "special commendation" for "zeal and ability" in capture of ten deserters.

Joint resolution by legislature of state of Texas—Expressing the "grateful thanks" of its people for "prompt action and gallant conduct in inflicting well merited punishment upon these scoundrels (Indians) of our frontier."
Thanks and congratulations—for "gallant and successful attack upon the combined camps of hostile 'Indians,' at Remolina, Mexico, and for 'the very handsome manner in which they accomplished this perilous and difficult work," by the commanding general, Department of Texas, G. O. No. 6, June 2, 1873.

Report of Gen. R. S. Mackenzie to department headquarters—"Acted handsomely" and "deserve consideration" after "the terribly hard ride" in attack upon hostile Indian camps and a march of 140 miles in thirty-two hours with pack train, wounded men, captured prisoners, ponies, etc.

NEW BANK PROPOSED.

Organizers Plan to Erect Building at 9th and G Streets.

A new bank was planned last night at a meeting in the offices of Julius I. Peyer in the Southern building, and although the directors adopted a name for the institution, for the present it is being withheld. Several of the organizers of the new bank were former directors of the Merchants and Mechanics' Savings Bank, which became a part of the United States Trust Company.

The bank, it is said, will be located in a new building which will be erected at the northeast corner of 9th and G streets northwest, the site of the former Provident Savings Bank.
It was decided to organize the new financial institution under the laws of West Virginia, with a capital stock of $1,000,000 and a surplus of $250,000. Prominent among the incorporators are: Julius I. Peyer, A. D. Prince, Charles W. Darr, George R. Linkins and Fred H. McKee.

FIND LOOT IN THEIR ROOMS.

Terminal Laborers Charged With Robbing Pullman Cars.

Berard Battalio, Carlo Casalone, Giovanni Francisco, Crosto Macklough, Bernardo Bogani, Bassela Dildona and Berlenio Fortnerto are the names recorded at police headquarters of seven Italians who were charged yesterday in the Police Court with theft of property from the premises of the Washington Terminal Company, where they were employed.

They will be tried Tuesday.
William E. Vixar, chief of the police force of the Terminal Company, is complainant in the cases, the arrests having been made by Detectives Pratt and Howell and Policeman Orin. Additional arrests are expected before the seven men are placed on trial.

The men under arrest reside at 12 Jackson street northeast, and were employed as laborers in the Terminal Company's yards. It is charged that they took various articles, including about $100 worth of linen, from the cars of the Pullman Company—a number of linens, uniforms, hats, shoes, etc.—and other articles, including about $100 worth of property, the detectives state, has been recovered. Most of the cart load of property recovered by the police, it is stated, was found in the rooms occupied by the defendants and others, the police having found it in or under their beds.

EFFORTS OF DIVERS FUTILE.

Fail to Learn Extent of Damage to Dreadnought Arkansas.

Divers at work on the bottom of the dreadnought Arkansas, lying in Guantanamo harbor, have so far been unable to ascertain the extent of the damage suffered by that ship as a result of her grounding on a coral bank off Caimanera last Thursday.
The Navy Department has ordered the vessel to the New York navy yard, in order that she may be docked. A naval board will seek to place the responsibility for the grounding, which it is suspected was the result of inadequate charts.

As the result of a fractured skull, sustained in a fall while walking along the street in Hagerstown, Md., G. Howard Stepler of Chambersburg, Pa., died almost instantly.
